in the South, where a whole race, invested by the Constitution of the United States with the right to vote, have practically been denied that right, and subjected to the most cruel appression and wrong. I hope and believe that it is not so bad now as formerly, but still, in the States where the colored people are in the majority, they are, by less cruel devices than formerly, denied the right to vote, and to-day more than thirty Democratic votes in the House of Representatives are based upon the negro population of the South who are practically denied the right to choose a Representative. Now, can there be any man so ignorant in this intelligent community that he does not know these facts, and that all these crimes are committed at the dictate of race prejudice and in the interest of the Democratic party?

Democratic party!

"Let me ask you another question.

Where or when have frauds been practiced. Where or when have frauds been practiced at elections by the Republican party? That here and there a vote may be illegally cast, or some political trick or device resorted to to secure an advantage, I do not question. Human nature is pretty much the same everywhere, and crimes will be committed by men of all parties, creeds and sects. Every family, almost, contributes a rascal to the general stock, but where or when did the Republican party engage in fraud? When has it deprived any class of legal voters from casting their votes? voters from casting their votes?
"Sometimes our Democratic friends refer to the Louisiana election of 1876 as an example of Republican fraud. They say that in that election Tilden got a majority of the votes but the electors were returned in favor of President Hayes. Now, on the other hand, I know, for I was present at the count, that the returning board of Louisiana simply obeyed the law of that State, which authorized and directed them, in any parish where a fair vote was prevented or defeated by fraud or violence, to exclude the vote of such parish from the count. I know, and the records will bear me out, that the evidence was clear that frand, violence, intimidation and even murder were resorted to by the Democratic party in that election; that the proof was absolutely conclusive that the parishes rejected had been controlled by this violence. What is complained of by our Democratic friends is the fact that their frauds in that election were defeated by the legal action of the returning board in excluding certain parishes, and that the offense of the Re-publican party in that election was that it defeated a fraud committed by the Demo-

"No, fellow-citizens, I can repeat with confidence that whatever demerits you may find in the Republican party, you cannot show that in any case it has consented to connived at frauds in elections, while the history of the Democratic party for the last twenty years is full of the gravest crimes against the elective franchise

"Have you ever thought of the inevitable result of frauds at elections? The minor matter of fights and bloodshed that occur at the moment is the least important consequence. The real danger is that fraud at elections will undermine our republican institutions. As sure as fate, if practiced in the future as in the past, it will end in civil war. I do not threaten this, because I do not anticipate it, for I believe the people will correct the dangerous tendency of the times long before it comes to the last resort, an appeal to force. I would rather be ruled by the meanest tyrant that ever correct by the meanest tyrant that ever cursed mankind than be habitually cheated by the criminal classes out of my right to vote, And when such fraud extends to State and national elections, as it did in 1868 and in 1875, it threatens to subvert republican government and justifies the most extreme measures of resistance, and such was get-ting to be the temper of the people of Ohio after the frauds of 1885 at Cincinnati and

The Senator paid a high compliment to Governor Foraker as a man and a soldier, and his administration had been a clean and economical one, and that he was entitled to another election, and the people would so vote by an immense majority. He spoke of Mr. Campbell as a gentleman of merit and ability, but as a man who led a party whose triumph this fall would bring injury to Ohio, and set back the cause of reform throughout the Nation.

Runaway Cronin Witnesses Recaptured. CHICAGO, Oct. 10 .- Dan Carroll, the runaway witness in the Cronin case, was brought to the city last night by the po-lice. After making his escape the man hastened back to Riverside and re-entered the employ of Con Sullivan. Carroll's story is that he got tired of walking around the streets, going to the theaters, sleeping and eating, and felt that he needed a little work to keep him in good health, so, when the opportunity presented, he went away.

Attorney Crews to-day filed in the State Supreme Court, at Ottawa, a petition for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Frank J. Woodruff, or Frank J. Black. The petition is practically the same as the one tion is practically the same as the one which Judge Baker denied in Chicago. The principal ground for asking Woodruft's discharge is that four terms of the Criminal Court have intervened since his indictment, and that he has at all times demanded a release or an immediate trial.

Johnston Makes a Mile in 2:08 Under Disadvantages-Three and Four-Year-Olds Reduce Their Records-Events Elsewhere.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 10.-A red-letter day was the third of the trotting meeting. The day was perfect and the attendance large. To have had six consecutive heats in a hotly-contested race paced in the average time of 2:15 1-6, thus beating all previous records, should be glory enough for one day, but in addition to this Johnston paced a mile in 2:08, the three-quarters of which were done in 1:34, a 2:05 1-3 gait. A three-year-old reduced her pacing record to 2:1912, giving the incomparable Williams another threeyear-old in the 2:20 list in addition to his Axtell and Allerton. Scioto Girl, a fouryear-old, reduced her record to 2:1812, and three heats in the three-year trot had an average of 2:24. The 2:25 trot, for a purse of $1,000, was well contested between Billy Beverly and Solong, for second money, Diamond wining easily. Summary:

Dead Heat for a $1,000 Purse. MORRIS PARK, N. Y., Oct. 10 .- The real sport of to-day's meeting occurred in the second race, when Cracksman and Kingston ran a dead heat for a $1,000 purse. It was claimed by many that Crack sman repeatedly bumped against Kingston in the final quarter. It was a magnificent struggle. Buddhist, with Jimmy McLaughlin up, was backed off the boards for the Protectory stakes. What might have been a serious accident happened to McLaughlin as he cantered past the stand. When a few feet beyond the stand, and just as he was preparing to turn about to go to the post, Buddhist stumbled and McLaughlin went over his head and landed squarely on his back on the ground. The horse jogged leisurely down the track. McLaughlin arose to his feet, and, with some assistance, limped painfully down the track to the paddock. After a short delay he remounted, and went to the post. He landed Buddhist a winner by a good margin, and was again hand-somely applauded.

A NOBLE MISSION. Red River Colony in Manitoba Founded by Earl Selkirk Eighty Years Ago.

San Francisco Chronicle.

The Countess of Selkirk, of Scotland, and the Countess of Shrewsbury, of England, who arrived in the city on Tuesday from the North, departed on Wednesday for a tour of the Yosemite valley. They will re-turn to the Palace Hotel early next week. To a Chronicle reporter on Wednesday Lady Selkirk told the object of her visit to this country.

Accompanied by Lady Shrewsbury, Lady Selkirk made a pious pilgrimage to the far Northwest, traveling over the Canadian Pacific railroad. The pilgrimage of these two distinguished ladies was to the Church of Kildowan, not far from Winnipeg. Around the ancient church are buried, the remains of the early settlers, whom Eady Selkirk's father-in-law, the Earl of Selkirk, introduced into the Red river country upward of eighty years ago. These colonists had a difficult battle for existence, and the romantic story of their vicissitudes and sufferings is one of the most pathetic chap-ters in the annals of the Red river country.

It was a purely philanthropic project upon the part of Earl Selkirk.

These colonists had hardly reached their new homes when they were attacked by In-dians, who objected to the encroachment upon their hunting-grounds. The Canadian fur companies were, if possible, more hostile to the colonists than were the savage red men, and repeatedly drove the set-tlers from their log houses. After ten years of desperate warfare with the one set of enemies or the other, the colonists were allowed to live somewhat in peace.

About the year 1888, a new and un-expected foe, more terrible than either red or white men, appeared and reduced them to a condition more piti-able than they had ever experienced. In a single night a plague of locusts came and swept their fields perfectly bare, leav-ing not even a blade of grass. The crops had been a complete failure the preceding year, and the colonists were now threatened with starvation. Lord Selkirk genported $5,000 worth of seed from this country, but their sufferings, in the meantime, were intense and next to incredible. Five or six of the original settlers are still living, but they were mere children when their fathers were laying the foundations of empire in the Red river country. Lady Selkirk has aided and assisted the remnants of her father's colony, and for this purpose she made a recent pilgrimage to Manitoba.

BURDETTE'S LITTLE SPEECH. The Humorist Gives Some Sound Advice to

Sunday-School Pupils. Philadelphia Ledger. The sixteenth anniversary of the Merion Square Baptist Sunday-school was celebrated yesterday afternoon. Robert J. Burdette, who has supplied the pulpit on Burdette, who has supplied the pulpit on Sunday evenings for some time past at the chapel, in an address said: "We are here to-day sixteen years old, sweet sixteen, the sweetest and prettiest of all ages. Some people of the tender, pretty sex are best at that age, and hold on to it wonderfully long, but a Sunday-school is never at its best at that age. Only a few years ago, when meeting in the old place, the school was a baby, and a precious baby it was. I remember the day a little boy dropped a Time, 1:1634.

The school is full of opportunities, and the children grasp them quicker than old people. Take, for instance, the old woman to whom a man, working on a building on Broadway, had given a sixteen-foot plank to carry home. She carried it, to the consternation of all passers-by. A news-boy told her to break the plank into kindling wood, and showed her how it could be done by using the trucks and the coaches. He placed it on the curb, and the coaches. He placed it on the curb, and the vehicles ran over it, breaking it into small pieces. Make use of everyone to advance the interests of the school. Looking back on our school history, and seeing what God hath wrought, let us thank God that we can look forward and take courage."

Dr. H. A. Arnold, in a brief address, presented Mr. Burdette with a gold watch and chain on behalf of the school. On the interest case of the watch was inscribed. "Presented of the school."

A Reunion at which Reminiscences of School Days Were Delightfully Recalled.

THE OLD SEMINARIANS.

The "Old Seminary Boys," those delightful souvenirs of the early days of Indianapolis, gathered at the Exposition Building yesterday, full of retrospection and reminiscence, for their eleventh annual reunion, the season when the frost is on the pumpkin always being selected for these festivities. In addition to the Old Seminary boys there were a number of elderly ladies who, in their youth, had attended the school kept by the Misses Axtell, nearly half a century ago, and they proved to be even livelier than the venerable seminarians. The younger generations were also represented, and about eighty persons sat down to a dinner sufficient to feed two hundred persons on any other occasion. The Seminary boys present were Gen. John Coburn, Col. Sam Merrill, Maj. Joseph Pope, Calvin Fletcher, Stoughton A. Fletcher, Fielding Beeler, Joseph K. English, Ignatius Brown, Alexander Woods, George W. Pitt, Sanford Morris, Sam V. Morris, Robert Smith, Bishop Osborne, E. F. Norwood, George Hanch, William Morland, Joseph R. Robinson, Frank Hamilton, Pleasant Griffiths, Gilmore Jordan, Ambrose S. Morton, George P. Anderson, John H. Ohr, Henry Maguire, Col. John W. Blake, R. D. Bacon and D. W. Brouse. Among the other gentlemen present were James Robertson, Dr. Theodore Wagner and Horace Fletcher. The "Old Axtell Girls" and other invited guests were Mrs. Jane Ketcham, Mrs. John S. Spann, Mrs. Julia Moores, Mrs. David Macy, Mrs. E. R. Eckert, Mrs. Calvin Fletcher, Mrs. Fielding Realer, Mrs. Lose, Mrs. Sam V. Morris, Mrs. Beeler, Mrs. Igoe, Mrs. Sam V. Morris, Mrs. Eliza Macready, Mrs. Theodore Wagner, Mrs. John A. Haugh, Mrs. W. sociation called the boys and girls to order, and the election of officers for the ensuing year took place, resulting as follows:

President-Ignatius Brown. Vice-president—Calvin Fletcher, of Spencer. Secretary—Geo. P. Anderson. Treasurer—Fielding Beeler. Necrologist—Col. Samuel Merrill.

The selection of an executive committee was left to the new president, and the committee to be selected will name time and place of holding the next annual meeting. Calvin Fletcher exhibited a number of the school-books studied by the Old Seminary boys and the Axtell girls, and made a questions. from these quaint looking little books, and the boys and girls answered with astonishing accuracy.
Webster's Elementary Spelling-book was taken up, and General Coburn, Major Pope, Colonel Merritl, Mrs. Julia Moores, Mrs.
Igoe and others showed they yet remembered the stories in the back part of that wonderful book by the wood-cuts that adorned the text.

"Who was President in 1835?" asked Mr. Fletcher, representing the school-master of the olden time.

"Jackson," was the answer.
"How many people were in the United States at that time?"

"I don't know." "Just twelve millions," said the peda-gogue, who also vouchsafed the informa-tion that in those days they lived in the State of "Ingeanny," and in the town of "Inginaplis." Robert Smith was unable to "Inginaplis." Robert Smith was unable to tell how many States there were in those good old times, but Mrs. Eliza Macready and two or three other of the girls answered "twenty." Olney's Geography. Peter Parley's Geography and Lindley Iurray's Grammar. vintage of 1828, were taken up in turn, and the examination proceeded. "And," said Mr. Fletcher, "this geography says the biggest town in the State is Vincennes. That was in 1835, and now I wish to congratulate the little girls and boys upon their good behaviour. girls and boys upon their good behaviour, and their parents will observe hereafter to have their children come to school with pocket handkerchiefs." Joseph R. Robinson presented the association with a copy of his book "Picturesque Indianapolis." The afternoon was spent in conversation by the Axtell girls, while the boys put in the time in shinny, town-ball, foot-ball, leap-frog, mumble-peg and other diversions, at which they were doubtless much more apt and nimble fifty years ago.

The Indianapolis Sunday-school Associa-

Meetings of the Several Classes of the Sun-

has quietly and steadily advanced its work. There are now in the city and suburbs fifteen classes holding weekly meetings, with an enrollment of nearly five hundred. Each session of the class has two exercises. The first is a teachers' meeting for the study of the Sunday lesson; the second is for a normal lesson from the "International Manual." Dr. Gilbert, assisted by Miss Anderson, has formed a faculty, composed of some of the leading lay Bible students and teachers of the city. The faculty had an interesting session, yesterday, and assigned work for the next term, as follows: Class No. 1, First Presbyterian Church, Dr. Gilbert leader of exercises. Class No. 3, lecture-room, First Presbyterian Church, Friday evening; Mrs. J. E. Gilbert, leader of both exercises. Class No. 4, Third Christian Church, Monday evening; C. P. Jacobs, leader of teachers' meeting, and Eli F. Ritter, of normal class. Class No. 5, Hall-place M. E. Church, Friday evening; J. B. McNeeley, leader of teachers' meeting, and Rev. M. B. Hyde, of normal class. Class No. 6, Clifford-avenue M. E. Church, Tuesday evening; Rev. J. M. Bailey, leader of both sections. Class M. Bailey, leader of both sections. Class Fourth Christian Church, evening; Mrs. M. E. Mc-leader of both sections. Connell. Class No. 8, Mayflower Congregational Church, Monday evening; J. M. Sutton, leader of teachers' meeting, and Rev. Mr. Evans of normal class. Class No. 9, Ames M. E. Church, Monday evening; J. D. Holmes, leader of both sections. Class No. 10, German M. E. Church, Tuesday evening; Rev. J. S. Schneider, leader of both sections, in the German language. Class No. 11, North Indianapolis, Friday evening; C. A. Wise, leader of both sections. Class No. 12, Irvington, Friday evening: Professor Benton, leader of both sections. Class No. 13, Madison - avenue school-house, Thursday evening; Wm. Noble, leader of both sections. Class No. 14, Southport, Friday evening; Rev. Mr. Dashiel, leader of both sections. Class No. 15, Glenn's Valley, Thursday evening; Jacob Busher, leader of both sections. A Reception Postponed.

Dr. Vananda, the new pastor of Roberts Park Church, has not been heard from since Monday, and telegraphic communication fails to reach him at Minneapolis. The committee on arrangements has, for this reason, thought it advisable to postpone the reception set for to-night until some time to be named, when there will be a certainty that the new pastor will be present.

A Missionary Meeting. There will be a missionary meeting at the First Baptist Church this evening. Addresses will be delivered by several ministers and laymen. There will be a fine musical programme, and Mrs. Hammond will sing a solo.

AMUSEMENTS. ENGLISH'S OPERA-HOUSE - "LIGHTS AND

A fairly filled house greeted "Lights and Shadows" at English's Opera-house last night, and a well-pleased audience departed at the close of the performance. The play is a five-act melodrama of the "Romany Rye" school, with fine scenic and mechanical effects. Virtue appears from the start to be heavily handicapped in the contest with villainy, and wickedness not only has all the skill but apparently all the trump cards until the last act, when virtue triumphs in fine form and the paternal blessing descends upon the muchsuffering lovers, while the chief of police removes all the real bad people to the station-house. Miss Mary Newman, who plays the part of Edith Broughton, is a handsome woman, and does melodrama very effectively. The roles of Madam Gerard and Mother Meg are assumed by Miss Annie Barclay, Mother Meg being a variation of Mother Shipton, of Romany. It is a strong part, and Miss Barclay brings out all there is in it. The part of the all-compelling villain of the play is taken by H. S. Duffield, who makes his character a thoroughpaced scoundrel, quiet and methodical, at-tending to his criminal pursuits, with genteel elegance, neatness, promptness and dispatch. "Judge Broughton, of the Will-lows," is the role taken by a former resident of this city, David Hanchett, once well known here, and much of a favorite in the legitimate. Mr. Hanchett, as the wealthy old judge, does some creditable acting, and does it easily. This melodrama is of the aqueous variety, the water being turned on in Act III, Scene 3, with intensely thrilling effect. This drama is one that pleases an audience, and the reward of virtue, which comes at the close, is suffi-ciently complete to meet the severest ex-action of poetic justice. The play will be repeated to-night and to-morrow night, with Saturday matinee.

"Nobody's Claim" was put on at the Park Theater yesterday afternoon by the Dowl-ing company, and will run during the re-mainder of the week.

The sale of seats for the Abbott performances at the Grand next week opened yesterday morning, and the demand indicates a successful engagement.
